

01 / THE IDEA AND THE PILOT

Every conversation. Connected to what happens next.

Edson, this concept connects the experience people have with Atlas Copco to the follow-through that turns interest into business. The web presentation demonstrates the customer journey and an interactive lead workbench.

The connected journey

01

Experience

Trade shows, product demonstrations and relevant field events.

02

Understand

A short needs finder surfaces the application, site power and buying intent.

03

Personalize

A relevant product path, useful follow-up and eligible channel audiences.

04

Follow through

A named person, site visit, recorded outcome and dated next action.

05

Grow relationships

Referrals, partner acceptance and a visible commercial outcome.

Prove the system before expanding the spend.

FIRST 6 MONTHS

Audit the baseline. Launch one connected pilot. Improve routing, content and follow-through.

BY 12 MONTHS

Scale proven applications and territories. Standardize partner reporting and team reviews.

TOWARD 2030

Build stronger U.S. consideration, repeat demand and referral contribution against a defined baseline.

02 / ACCOUNTABILITY AND MEASUREMENT

Make the next step visible.

The dashboard shows ownership and exceptions. The real operational change comes from assignment rules, required activity fields and a manager-led follow-up process.

Ownership	Assign an internal owner and record acceptance. Retain ownership through a dealer or rental handoff.
Activity	Record the outcome, next action and due date. Distinguish rep-reported notes from system events and customer confirmation.
Exceptions	Surface missing and overdue next actions. Agree business-hour reminders, escalation and reassignment rules.
Outcome	Track partner acceptance, quotes, wins, losses and nurture. Define attribution to prevent duplicate counting.

The scenario model is transparent.

Example only: 400 inquiries x 60% qualified x 85% followed through x 50% quoted x 25% won = 25.5 expected wins. At $50,000 each, modeled gross booked value is $1,275,000. Every input is illustrative and adjustable.

This is not a forecast, recognized revenue, profit or ROI. Fractional wins represent an expected value. Validate the sales cycle, channel mix, costs, capacity and CRM baseline before adopting targets.

Build around SAP C4C.

SAP Cloud for Customer (C4C) is the existing CRM. Keep it as the system of record. Confirm the edition and integration permissions; validate native workflow rules with its administrator. Connect the dashboard through supported APIs or approved middleware. MCP is optional.
