

01 / THE BUSINESS PROBLEM

Stop losing qualified leads after the handoff.

The lead was captured. The opportunity was not. Edson described inquiries entering C4C, then losing visibility when the immediate value looks too small or the opportunity moves to a dealer, distributor or rental partner without a clearly owned next action.

THE DISCONNECTED JOURNEY

THE COST

Atlas Copco can lose the direct relationship, the conversion opportunity and the evidence needed to improve marketing and sales follow-through.

ROLE CANDIDATE

Lorenzo White

Founder, ZAH Brand Solutions

Growth Marketing Strategy & Systems Architect

Candidate for Marketing Communications Manager - APE. Lorenzo builds paid-media, lead-capture, CRM and lifecycle systems that move qualified interest toward conversion.

02 / THE CONNECTED CONVERSION SYSTEM

Generate demand. Capture context. Convert the next action.

The strategy joins Lorenzo's core experience - running targeted campaigns, generating qualified leads and converting those leads - to the accountability problem Edson wants solved.

THE GOAL PULSE CHECK

A focused survey, not a generic contact form. It turns a first conversation into usable sales context and gives every personalized return a clear reason to exist.

03 / WHAT THE PROSPECT SEES NEXT

The survey does not end at submit. It powers every return.

The same captured context shapes a personalized sales experience across the page, email and eligible advertising. Every path points toward a measurable conversion action.

THE CONVERSION PATH

Recommendation

Return

Conversation

Decision

Personalized page -> email or retargeting -> assigned sales professional -> walkthrough, pricing, rental or purchase action.

04 / KEEP OWNERSHIP THROUGH CONVERSION

A handoff changes who serves the lead. It does not end accountability.

Keep a named internal sales professional, an accepted next action and a dated outcome visible in C4C. A dealer, distributor, rental partner or another team becomes a governed route when needed, not the destination of the strategy.

CONDITIONAL PARTNER ROUTE

If a partner must serve the prospect, record acceptance, retain the internal owner, date the next action and continue tracking the customer outcome.

A FOCUSED PILOT

FIRST 6 MONTHS

Establish the baseline, launch one connected pilot and review every handoff.

BY 12 MONTHS

Scale the strongest applications, audiences and territories using verified outcomes.

TOWARD 2030

Expand what works while preserving local ownership and consistent measurement.

Concept sources: interview discussion reported by Lorenzo White; SAP Cloud for Customer as the stated CRM; Atlas Copco published equipment pages and product reference sheets. This independent prototype uses fictional records and illustrative targets. It does not write to C4C, send ads or contact customers.
